Purpose

The Canadian War Museum was looking for a new public address system to improve its ability to communicate with visitors and employees. The new system needed to produce clear sound and be easy to use while meeting their budget.

Challenge

TOA and the installer needed to ensure the new PA system was installed by a certain time.

Solution

TOA recommended using the VM 200 mass notification system along with speakers and projection speakers for wider coverage. Powerful amplifiers were also installed to give it more power. The project was designed quickly with in-stock products to meet the time constraints.

Feedback

The museum was extremely happy with speed and performance of the final install.
